NEW YORK, May 20, 1877. Editor of the Journal of Commerce: Will you please inform me whether the expression "To-morrow is Tuesday" is gramatically correct, or if common usage has made it proper? Very truly yours. AcY. C. Reply .- "As Tuesday follows every Monday, it is correct to say on Monday "To-morrow is Tuesday." We may quote in confirmation the very highest authority: Exodus, 16th chapter, 23d verse: "This is that which the Lord hath said, To-morrow is the rest of the holy Sabbath."-Journal of Commerce.

[Our Clarke correspondent will see from the above that the Journal of Commerce repeats. what we said to him a month or two ago.]

Editors of the Dispatch:

The printer, in setting up my verse yesterday, used the word "pill" instead of "pin," making me appear a trifle vulgar when it was my aimesimply to be nonsensical. Now, if her ladyship refused a loving touch from me, she (and she has a very stormy disposition, as well as all the lighter graces of her sex) would positively rave upon being insulted by a pill-"throw physic to the dogs"-at the inky hands of a devil, even though he be merely a printer's one! It is well for his devilship that her ladyship is on the Pacific coast. Saints always play the mischief with such characters, particularly if the saint have the abovementioned ingredient in his or her make-up. To get at the difference between (I know you love betwixt, but I shall not put it down so) a pill and a pin swallow the two-the pin, as a student of physical phenomena informs me, will tickle with the delicacy of a feather of fire. After the test, if the student is doubted, please read, if you can, my last verse thus:

Her pure, proud mouth was raised to mine— A mouth that perfume tips; I stooped and kissed— Man, mark; O. list! Hoof: stars and fist!

A pin was 'tween her lips'! J. R. E. Yours. May 26, '77.

Mr. Moody gave the Boston Unitarians a parting shot last Monday. In the course of a conference with the clergy and leading members of the evangelical churches who have been identified with the Tabernacle work, he admonished them to look after the converts, and not allow them to get into churches where the gospel of Christ crucified was not preached. At the Tabernacle he had been "bothered by young converts getting into churches where the pure gospel was not preached." Hardly a night would pass, he said, but some clergyman who usually sat beside him on the platform would go off and preach in the Unitarian churches or to the Young Men's Christian Union, and this was a bad thing for the young converts, for they would go there and get false doctrine. Mr. Moody himself came in for his share of criticism. One of the gentlemen said that the preacher's plan of leaving Boston after the revival was a great blunder. He ought to remain there at least a year. "Gettysburg had been taken, but there was no time to stop until Richmond had surrendered.' Others echoed the sentiment, and a vote was taken on the expediency of Mr. Moody's remaining in Boston, nearly every one being in favor of the proposition. Mr. Moody said that he was not guided by votes, but by the Spirit, and should do as God directed.

A lady in San Francisco recently had a visit from her sister, who was rich and wore diamonds. While the guest was preparing to go out one morning she laid on the bureau of her room a purse containing a splendid diamond pin and a good deal of gold, and when she had tied her bonnetstrings in an adjoining room, looked for the purse and could not find it. The two ladies, assisted by a servant, made a thorough search, swept the house, moved the furniture, and rummaged in every direction, without avail. At midnight the lady of the house was awakened by the entrance of her sister, who was acting in a most singular manner and asking for writing materials. A pencil was given to her, and she immediately covered a sheet of paper with scrawls which were hardly decipherable. She soon lapsed into her normal condition, and the two ladies set to work to decipher the writing. One sentence was repeated several times. It was this: "She has hid it under the stool." They decided that "she" meant the servant, and proceeding to her door they knocked for admittance. The girl un-locked the door, and was told that she must dress and assist them in a further search for the pin. At the foot of the bed stood a covered stool, the cover reaching to the floor. Highly excited, the ladies rushed to it, tipped it over, and there lay the lost purse. The servant turned, ran down stairs, unlocked a door, and rushed into the street. The lady who had the dream and wrote the blind hand is not a Spiritualist. She is a blue Presbyterian.

"Mamma," said a little five-year-old, "what is a widow and what is a widower?" The mother explained to the little fellow, and by way of further explanation, said: "If you should grow up and get married, and your wife should die, why, then, you would be a widower." "Oh, no, I wouldn't;" said the little fellow, "I'd court another girl." Fact. It occurred in New

SUBURBAN FARM OF ONE HUNDRED ACRES OF LAND, WITH GOOD IMPROVEMENTS, ON HERMITAGE ROAD NEAR FAIR GROUNDS OF VIRGINIA STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY, ATAUCTION.—On WED NESDAY, May 30th, 1877. at 12 o'clock M. on the premises, and at the request of the owner. Mr.
Thomas Dunnill, I will offer the above very valuable FARM, containing ONE HUNDRED ACRES of fine land, mostly in fine order and under cultivation. This land was formerly owned by Dr. Martin
S. Taylor, and adjoins the lands of Thomas Branch, Dr. Martin S. Taylor, and others, and lately occupied by Charles H. Balmer as the Hermitage Dairy. This farm is very near the city, and must improve in value
as Richmond continues to grow in that direction.
The land lies beautifully, and is well adapted for a dairy or truck farm, the soil being highly improved.
Improvements: LARGE BRICK DWELLING with about six rooms, good stable, barns, kitchen, &c.:
nice orchard of one thousand young trees—apples, peaches, pears, &c. Excellent water on the place.

TERMS: Will be very liberal, and announced on day of sale.
